Current Duty: Teletype Operator, Base Communications Center. Processes and distributes messages at the Base Communications Center. Inspects incoming messages for proper classification, precedence, format and legibility. Assigns station serial numbers to outgoing messages, records message data on logs.

VII. COMMENTS OF REPORTING OFFICIAL (Be factual and specific. Add any comments which increase the objectivity of the rating)

FACTS AND SPECIFIC ACHIEVEMENTS: Airman Frye has proved himself to be an outstanding individual. In a minimum amount of time he became a highly proficient operator, mastering all aspects of mobile teletype communications, with its complex patching system. Airman Frye maintains accurate logs and keeps his supervisor informed of the ever changing status of circuits and equipment which occurs during his tour of duty. His ingenuity, skill, and knowledge enabled him to become one of the top operators of the Communications Center. While on duty he never allows himself to become idle or complacent. During slack traffic periods, he uses the free time to read ACP's, JANAP's and other publications associated with his career.

STRENGTHS: Airman Frye is a very mature young airman. His attitude toward the Air Force to be admired, and his devotion to duty and ability to work in harmony with his fellow airmen has drawn praise from his superiors. OTHER COMMENTS: During this period Airman Frye served as an Air Police Augmentee, requiring him to occupy a defensive bunker during periods of increased enemy hostility against Binh Thuy Air Base. I know of several instances where Airman Frye has completed a twelve hour tour of duty in a defensive bunker and then gone immediately to his normal duty shift in the Communications Center, completing his duty satisfactorily without relief or complaint. In recognition of his significant contributions to the mission of the 1880th Communications Squadron Airman Frye was recommended for the award of the Air Force Commendation Medal.

IX. REVIEW BY INDORSING OFFICIAL: Airman Frye is a good example of the bright, promising airmen that the United States Air Force is endeavoring to retain in its professional ranks. He has outstanding potential for a promising and productive career in the United States Air Force.

X. REVIEW BY OFFICER IN CHARGE: I DO NOT CONCUR Although young in years and with limited service experience, Airman Frye nevertheless turned in an outstanding record of competency while assigned to this unit. Operating with little direct supervision he has been required to make decisions in messages which have an immediate effect on air operations in the Mekong Delta area of South Vietnam.
